DATABASE

As mentioned in the Introduction, the place-names which form the core data for the above Survey have been printed out from the Scottish Place-Name Database. The structure of this database was developed under the auspices of a project funded by the Carnegie Trust for the Universities of Scotland, completed in April 2001. The structure, its rationale, and associated inputting strategies are fully described in the User Manual, submitted to the Carnegie Trust on the completion of the Project. Developed in Access 97 by Simon Taylor, Department of Medieval History, University of St Andrews and Ed Dee, Computing Services, University of Edinburgh, the copyright is held by the charitable company Scottish Place-Name Data Ltd., 27 George Square, Edinburgh EH8 9LD. The fund-holder was the Scottish Place-Name Survey, School of Scottish Studies, University of Edinburgh, and a copy of the Database, as well as of the User Manual, is held there for consultation.

As of summer 2002 the Database contains approximately 8000 head-names and 14000 historical forms, covering parts of Buchan, Angus and Lanarkshire (historical forms, spatial information, and linguistic analysis), all of Banffshire (historical forms from maps, and spatial information), as well as north-east Inverness-shire (i.e. the Survey area). It also includes the names of all medieval parishes of Scotland, as well as of the pre-1975 civil parishes, for some of which historical forms, spatial information, parish notes and linguistic analysis are supplied.

The following screen dump gives an idea of the various tables of the Database. The settlement-name Drumnaleach, Kilmorack parish, has been chosen as an example. This is followed by a print-out using the Databases print facility.

The screenshot shows the Microsoft Access interface for the 'Name + Place/Feature [Detailed]' form. The form is divided into two main sections: 'Name' and 'Place/Feature'.

DRUIMNALEACH (5392)

KILMORACK(KLO), Settlement NH465424 (Accurate position) 125m
OS Pathf, 176

Drumnalarck 1762 Parish Reg., Kilmorack [Described as Drumnalarck of Aigais, Colin Duglass in tenant there.]

Drumnaleach 1766 Parish Reg., Kilmorack

Drummnaleach 1807 Parish Reg., Kilmorack

Drumnalack 1831 Parish Reg., Kilmorack

Drumnaleachd 1871 Census 1871 [5 households at Drumnaleachd. For details see Harrison 2001 (Glens and Straths), 146. In 1881 Census there were only 2 houses at Drumnaleachd Cottages, which was presumably the same place as Drumnaleachd of the 1871 Census.]

Drummnaleach 1876 OS 6 inch first edn., INV Sheet X

G druim; G an; G leac

Notes associated with name:

'Ridge of the slabs or flat stones'. The specific is almost certainly plural (druim nan leac); singular would be druim na lice. Note the spelling of the 1762 form of this name, Drumnalarck, where the r seems to represent pre-aspiration before final c. This is found in the modern local pronunciation of the Inverness suburb Leachkin as Larkin.

There follow print-outs from the Database of all the places (head- or root-names) by parish in the Database as of June 2002.

Abbreviations:

Con: contains

equ: equals

On: on a water-course of other linear feature which passes through more than one parish (e.g. river, road etc.).

ovl: overlaps i.e. feature shared by more than one parish (e.g. bridge, loch, moss, hill).

If a place has changed parish, the earliest known date of change is indicated in the 'From Date' column.
